ST. PETER PORT, GUERNSEY

Where the “action” is found

The picturesque capital of Guernsey proves that you don't have to go to the Caribbean for white sand and crystal clear water. St Peter Port is both wonderfully pretty and atmospheric, full of blooming floral displays, tiny stone churches and brightly painted boats. What's more, summers are mostly sunny and comfortable, making the weather something you don't have to worry about.

As the capital of Guernsey, St. Peter Port is where the “action” is found. This mainly takes the form of strolling the cobbled streets, stopping every now and then to admire, and perhaps photograph, the stunning views.

Once French (original name: St. Pierre Port), the town is at least 800 years old, with the stone castle and maze like streets to prove it. Once you have made your way up to the ancient castle, make like a local and find refreshment with a cream tea, washed down perhaps with a glass of cider! If the weather is on your side, then surely there is no more invigorating pastime than hiking up to the spectacular Guernsey cliffs, taking in stunning views of wildflowers, sandy beaches and English Channel views.

For those who want to spread their wings a little further, the tiny island of Herm is just a 20-minute boat ride away, and homes no cars, one pub, a few cows, some puffins and about 50 people. Don't be fooled by St Peter Port's nostalgic exterior. The seaside town has made a name for itself as a foodie heaven, with everything from beach huts to Michelin starred restaurants offering sumptuous, locally sourced fare.

SIGHTS

- Castle Cornet Victor
- Hugo House
- Town Church

SHOPPING AND CUISINE

Shop windows on the High Street and the Pollet are sparklingly clean and are filled with local goods as well as more recognisable regional shops.

The high street twists through some back lanes of St. Peter Port and flows both up and downhill into the beautiful Market Square.

In the centre of St. Peter Port where most of Guernsey's shops are located, you can buy everything from UK brands, designer fashions and high class jewellery to unique, locally made goods that you simply cannot find anywhere else. The beautiful port town is wonderfully compact and easily explore on foot.
