ATUONA - HIVA OA, FRENCH POLYNESIA

The Hidden Jewel of the Marquesas Islands

The largest of the southern Marquesan islands, Hiva Oa holds a distinguished place in local tradition. Known in ancestral mythology as the master pillar or final post of the "Great House" that symbolizes the entire Marquesan archipelago, Hiva Oa has long stood in friendly rivalry with its northern counterpart, Nuku Hiva. Seen from above, the island resembles a seahorse, its rugged spine formed by a dramatic mountain range stretching from the southwest to the northeast. The principal summits—Mount Temetiu and Mount Feani—rise sharply to create a formidable natural rampart surrounding the settlement of Atuona. Atuona, a quiet and welcoming port nestled at the far end of Taaoa Bay—historically referred to as Traitors Bay—was once a remote and little-known village. Today, however, it is renowned worldwide for having served as the final home of two iconic figures: the celebrated painter Paul Gauguin and the beloved Belgian singer Jacques Brel. Their graves rest on the hillside of the Calvary Cemetery, overlooking the vast sweep of the bay. These simple yet evocative burial sites have become places of pilgrimage, drawing visitors moved by the artists' lives, legacies, and deep emotional connection to the island.

Many diseases and conditions are spread by not washing hands with soap and clean, running water. Alcohol-based hand sanitizers can quickly reduce the number of germs on hands. Please use the hand sanitizers situated at the entrance door of the dining outlets and various locations around the ship.
